10.000 new jobs for unemployed women
Full-time and part-time employment with special emphasis on maternity

Starting today, Friday January 16 at 10:00, businesses can start applying for the new "Business subsidy programme aimed at hiring 10.000 unemployed women with emphasis on mothers of minor children".

The programme with a total budget of €101.813.625 is funded by DYPA's resources and aims to promote women's employment and to facilitate the reconciling of professional and family life responding to the actual needs of women in the current labour market.

The programme intends to create 10.000 new jobs (5.000 full-time and 5.000 part-time jobs), so that we can offer flexibility to women – especially mothers of minor children – who cannot or do not wish at this stage to work full-time.
