More than 140 businesses offering 3.500 jobs will participate in DYPA's 58th "Career Day" in Athens

The Greek Public Employment Service (DYPA) in its 58th "Career Day" hosts more than 140 businesses looking for staff to cover over 3.500 jobs. The event will be held on Saturday, October 10, from 10:00 till 18:00, at the Divani Caravel Hotel (Vasileos Alexandrou Avenue 2, Athens).

The event is addressed to jobseekers, both unemployed and employees interested in new professional opportunities or those wishing to change their career paths.

Job candidates will have the opportunity to communicate directly with human resources executives, to hand in their CV and to discuss about available vacancies and cooperation opportunities.

Participating businesses are active in a wide range of sectors such as the food industry, clothing, cosmetics, pharmaceuticals and construction materials, wholesale and retail trade, construction and engineering, information technology, telecommunications, renewable energies, services, hospitality, entertainment and education.

Available vacancies cover various specialties and are addressed to candidates from different educational backgrounds, levels of professional experience and expertise.

Businesses are looking for staff in the following specialties: electricians mechanical and chemical engineers, refrigeration technicians, food technologists, agronomists, machine operators, welders and technical staff, as well as employees to work in production, warehousing, sales and transportation.

Moreover, there are vacancies for accountants, administrative staff, nurses, midwives, biologists, beauticians, graphic designers, marketing executives and project managers, as well as IT specialists such as application and web developers, software engineers, and database administrators.

There are also available vacancies in the field of education, for primary school teachers, kindergarten teachers, and educators of various disciplines (foreign languages, mathematics, physics, chemistry, and Greek language and literature).

Participation is free. Preregistration is optional and can be completed online via the following link:
